All Golds

Afterword

Although I am solely responsible for this rather ambitious project it could not have happened without the comprehensive backing of its sponsors and supporters. I extend my grateful thanks to them and all at SMILE studio for their contribution. My thanks go also to current staff and students of the School, and others in the university, who have helped in a variety of ways. Special thanks must go to my wife, for having to show even more patience than usual over a long period.

While my professional career has been enriched by all the wonderful colleagues that it has been my pleasure, and honour, to work alongside, my biggest debt, of course, is to forty years' worth of students – you are All Golds.

In Memoriam: Derek Birch (1941-2011) - who shared numerous experiences with me and contributed to the development of so many of the exhibitors.
